The Middle Devonian of Southwestern Ontario

This fieldtrip will visit Amherst Quarries' McGregor pit where we will examine Middle Devonian limestones and overlying glacial sediments. The Lucas and Dundee Formations host some of the most productive petroleum reservoirs in Ontario. Situated between two great sedimentary basins, the local paleoenvironments, sedimentary structures and stratigraphy within the quarry will be used as a backdrop to discuss the regional geological history of the Michigan and Appalachian basins.

You will need to bring your own safety boots. If you have a hard hat and safety glasses please bring along, if not they can be borrowed.
